Queen of Greece Makes Appeal to American Women to Give Aid in Balkan War; New Moderator of Presbyterian General Assembly Gives a Plain Talk to Social Unions; Fund Offered Is For Disciples' Church in New York City.

OLGA APPEALS TO WOMEN

Queen Olga, of Greece, a daughter of the aged ruler of Montenegro, heads a committee of women of Athens in an appeal to American women for sympathy, and possibly belp in the fight of the allies against the Turks. The ground of the appeal is that three or four weak peoples of the Balkans are fighting for Christian lives, for religious ifberty, and to drive, it may be. To the Presbyterian ciders the moderator is not less piain. He tells them not to reckon themselves part of a judiciary, but rather to count themselves evangelists. It is their business to win people to the church, and he tells the pastors that if their elders do not win people to depose them, and to put in ciders who will. He declares that if elders were in earnest they would quadruple the $5,000 reported to the general assembly each year as received on confession of faith, a number which he characterizes as absurd for a great church of 1,400,000 members. Godless trustees in Presbyterian churches come in for their share of the blame, and he adds that deacons would get what is coming to them only that deacons in Presbyterian churches are disappearing.

A LARGE NEW YORK TEMPLE

To the disciples general convention, just held at Louisville, the disciples of Christ of New York city proposed a gift to them of $550,000, to which the New York disciples will add $150,000 to make a fund of $500,000 with which to establish in New York city a disciple's church of commanding size and prominence. The proposal was made, not so much for action as for education. It is admitted that the unusual proposition will take time to carry through. Some declare it will not carry through. Some declare it will not carry even with time. Others say that if disciples of the middle west send money to the meney center, they will surpass in devotion any Christian propagandists of modern times.

The plea of the New York disciples is that there must be created in the largest city in America a plant of large size, centrally located. This need stand out for many reasos, they say. One is for Disciples going to New York from the west. Another is that news goes from east to west, and that disciples cannot hope to be national in prominence and influence until they are known. Still another is the disciples plea for unity and the bible, and its need to New York.

Disciples have about a dozen churches in New 10rk, including Brooklyn, and one of them, with property worth about $150,000, is to be sold and included in the proposed new plant. The latter is to be placed in a prominent location in Manhattan, While there are many churches in Manhattan that cost more than $500,000, including Site, it is claimed that that sum will make a fairly good showing. It is proposed by the New York disciples that some of the New York people claim that there is a growing number in the west who see the strategic value of their proposition, and are beginning to favor it.

LAYMEN DECIDE THAT

CHURCHES MEED MORE RELIGION After six years experience at trying to get churches of Canada and the United States to study foreign missions and contribute more money to their support, the Laymen's Missionary Movement issues a statement, just sent to the churches of the whole country, to the effect that in its judgment not more education or even more money is to the effect that In its judgment not more education or even more money is the great need, but that churches have more religion, to be gotten by more prayer. The Mevement points out the immense opportunities of the foreign fields, and expresses appreciation of a growing interest at home in them and their expansion. But it states that American churches alone are not able to cope with the problem. Even organization will not avail, nor great conventions.

to cope with the problem. Even organization will not avail, nor great conventions.

Acting on its conviction, the executive committee of the Movement asks mission boards and societies to lay before the churches this supreme and primary need for prayer. Among those signing the statement are Samuel B. Capen, president of the American board, Eben E. Olcott, who is head of the Hudson river day line, N. Farrar Davidson, of Toronto, former president of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in Canada, and well known business men like Frank A. Horne, J. Edgar Leayeraft, Alfred E. Mariing and William Jay Schieffelln, of New York, L. H. Severance, of Cleveland, William C. Stover, Philadelphia, Joshua Levering, Baltimore, S. W. Woodward, Washington, and John R. Pepper, Memphis.
